

Sermon Notes and Church Service Journal:

A Printable Notebook

A gentle, practical guide to help you listen with care, notice the message and carry one faithful response into the week.

Before the sermon

Take a quiet moment to settle. Put distractions aside, bring your Bible and notebook, and ask God for an open and attentive heart. Note the passage and the setting so you can return to the message later.

Listen actively

Listen to understand before trying to write everything down. Look for the speaker’s main point, how the Bible passage supports it and what response the message invites.
Notice the structure. Listen for repeated ideas, key words, examples and transitions that help connect the main point to the passage.
Write brief notes in your own words. Leave space to add a thought or question rather than copying every sentence. If you miss a detail, return your attention to the speaker.
Stay curious and gracious. Consider the meaning of the passage in context, and note anything you would like to explore or discuss further.

After the sermon

Review your notes while the message is fresh. Name one thing you learned, bring an honest question to prayer or conversation, and choose one realistic action for this week. Keep the action specific and kind, and return to it during the week.

A simple rhythm: listen carefully, write the main point, ask a thoughtful question, pray and take one next step.
